

AMS Group Acquires California-based System Technical Corporation (STC)

Alexandria, VA - August 17, 2021 - AMS Group, a leading provider of innovative technologies, services and logistics support to global defense and security markets, has acquired System Technical Corporation (STC) of Torrance, CA. STC designs and builds engineered products for military and aerospace applications.

The addition of STC enhances AMS Group's engineering capabilities and expands its key customer base in land systems and aerospace platforms.

AMS Group CEO Ian Haley said, "We are proud to welcome the high quality STC team. Together we share common values and a commitment to excellence as demonstrated over its 25-year history. Furthermore, STC provides a critical presence on the West Coast as AMS continues its expansion in the defense market."

STC CEO Eric Leskly said, "We are very proud to be joining AMS Group. The synergies between the two companies offer tremendous opportunity for innovation and growth. We are excited to bring AMS' resources and expertise to continue and expand our support for our customers and their mission."
